Program Leadership and Administration

Acting Director, Sound Money Project 2026–present
American Institute for Economic Research

- Lead a team of five scholars producing research and public scholarship on monetary policy; provide editorial review of their scholarship and public engagement.
- Build interactive dashboards tracking U.S. monetary and macroeconomic performance; serve as the project's public representative.

Director of Graduate Studies 2026–present
Department of Economics, Florida Atlantic University

- Manage graduate student funding; plan and carry out recruitment strategy; serve as the program's external point of contact for prospective students; assist with curriculum design and implementation.

Director of Undergraduate Studies 2024–2026
Department of Economics, Florida Atlantic University

- Built and delivered recruiting presentations, organized an open house each semester, and created new outreach channels for the major. The economics major grew from 65 to 118 students, 2024–2026.

Founder, South Florida Economic Outlook Report 2025–present
Florida Atlantic University

- Initiated and developed a recurring report on the tri-county economy; present its findings at the annual South Florida Economic Outlook Conference, Research Park at Florida Atlantic (2025, 2026).

Organizer and Scholar Advisor, IHS Policy Research Workshop 2026
"Lifting Barriers to Human Flourishing," Institute for Humane Studies; virtual sessions, July–August

2026, with an in-person convening at Florida Atlantic University, Fall 2026.

Assistant Director, Free Market Institute 2019–2024
Angelo State University

- Helped build a young institute and a new economics major: led development of the major's curriculum, prepared four new courses, founded and advised the Omicron Delta Epsilon chapter, and recruited and mentored students into graduate programs in economics.
- Managed the Institute's programming, including a public lecture series (speakers included Steve Forbes, Yeonmi Park, Jason Riley, and Matt Ridley), fundraising events, a reading program for advanced students, and a student-produced monthly newsletter on economic trends.
- Served on the College of Business Strategic Planning and Societal Impact Committees and the department Curriculum Committee.
